Monterrey Provision Company Earns AIB Superior Rating

San Diego, California (November 1, 2012)– Monterrey Provision Company, a specialty food distributor for over forty years, has been honored with Superior Certification from AIB International (American Institute of Baking).

This certification recognizes companies that have exemplified quality in their goods, outstanding food safety and sanitary working conditions in their facilities, and exemplary training for employees regarding how to properly handle food products.

“This achievement verifies the stringent policies and procedures that have been put in place to provide a safe, clean and efficient facility for our employees and customers,” notes John Foit, Vice President of Operations for Monterrey. “The rigorous training and benchmarks that must be met to earn a superior rating are a testament to the entire team’s commitment.”

AIB International's inspections are based upon a widely recognized set of consolidated standards that contain the requirements for achieving superior food safety in distribution and manufacturing, and are considered a measure of world-class operations.

This recent achievement comes just months after Monterrey Provision Company moved its primary warehouse and operations to an 82,000 square foot, state of the art facility in the Otay Mesa region of San Diego. In conjunction with the move, the Company further invested in equipment and technology upgrades

“Earning AIB’s highest rating is meaningful on so many levels,” said Luke Abbott, President of Monterrey. “The rating itself exemplifies the hard work and personal pride that each of our team members displays every day. More importantly, our customers and vendor partners can be assured that Monterrey’s facility and practices are considered among the best-rated in the country.”
